How Much Can a Bare Bear Bear?

What Are Homonyms and Homophones?

To my sister Mary,
who was merry on the day
she was to marry

Homonyms

are words that sound
and also look alike.

But they have
different meanings, as in
"Can you pass that can, Mike?"

Or "May I sail with you in May and coast all along the coast?"

These words are a blast
if you say them quite fast.

like

"Why don't we toast
with some toast?"

A light may be light,
like a small paper kite.

A trunk can be found in a trunk.

An inchworm or snail could
scale a scale.

A lean cat could
lean on a skunk.

But punch cannot punch,
and at
breakfast
or lunch,

Your jam cannot jam
on a trumpet.

A bowl cannot bowl,

but a r.o.!!

might just r.o.!!

if it's not
made as flat
as a crumpet.

Now, some words sound identical
but are spelled in different ways.

These words are known as homophones.

like
praise

and preys

and prays.

Though homophones
have matching sounds,
their meanings aren't
the same.

And there isn't any question,
they're as fun as any game.

A bee can be.

A flea can flee.

A burro
can burrow
a hole.

A horse can get hoarse
from talking, of course.

A ewe
could take you
on a stroll.

A fowl can be foul.

A toad can be towed.

An heir mustn't err in the air.

A whale can wail.

A male can mail.

A pair might just
pare a big pear.

A bust can be bused
by a driver you trust,

and Barry
can bury
a berry.

A band could be banned
if they get out of hand,

and Mary (wh^o's merry)
can marry.

But the Sea cannot See,
and it's clear as can be

that

&

ball

will not

bawl

when

it's rolled.

A m^{oo}se has no use
for a bottle of m^{ou}sse,
and a creek doesn't creak
when it's old.

But a bear
should be bare,

and it
wouldn't be rare
if wood would
be kept in a shed.

A Sioux
might not Sue
if he knew
that the gnu that he bought wasn't new like you said.

My niece could see Grease
both in Greece and in Nice.

A Czech could be writing a
check.

A maid could be made
to be very afraid
when she heard
a big herd on the deck.

You could search the whole World,

while it spun and it whirled,

in each inn
and beneath every stone.

And you'd find no more pleasures than these great verbal treasures—

the homonym
and homophone!

So, what are homonyms and homophones?

Do you know?
